Instant motion sickness for me and you don't immediately understand what to do. No thanks..

\u2b50\u2b50\u2b50\u2b50\u2b50. hard but fun. Super fun fast-paced grappling hook platformer with smooth acrobatic movement, fantastic level and enemy design, and satisfying dash-into-enemies combat that will make you wonder why other grappling hook games don't do combat this way. The controls make it very easy to pick up, especially considering it's a grappling hook game, but it's still ridiculously hard to master; I'd argue that some of the optional end-game challenge levels are even harder than the equivalent levels in Celeste.

It has a ton of levels, hidden collectibles and optional challenges, e.g. "finish this stage without touching the ground" or "finish this stage without using the grappling hook more than X times", like the similar "only use X portals" challenges in Portal. I bought this after randomly seeing it in my Steam discovery queue and ended up getting waaaaay more polish and content than I expected, along with super tight momentum-based controls. Highly recommended!. Old school, way back to the original xbox. Still fun though if you like a challenge and heavy haulage this is the game for you. It's a great game, I was very excited to play it when I received as a gift from a special person. I didn't get disappointed, the game is really nice and beautiful, good graphics and soundtrack. In a biological view I really liked it, even in a botanical lab some people can't imagine a plant as a live being, I mean, they are immobile to our eyes! By playing "Reach for the Sun" I felt I can like plants even more now than I already liked before. Totally recommended if you are interested in plants <3. I would love to play the game. The setting is really cool. Sadly the game doesn't work with my steam controller on my system, so I had to refund... on top I had kind of stuttering and the controls are a bit delayed sometimes... If there would be a fix I would buy again!!!!. This game is ecstasy. The VR overlay is a bit weird at times, but the feeling of spraying a wall is more than enough. I keep coming back to this simple program more than I thought I would. I've tried other VR art software, yet this one keeps it simple enough where it's always the most approachable and fun to work in.

Great game for beginners to experienced artist. Some pixelation up close, not a big deal or all that noticeable. Abilities to change can caps, color palettes, history, undo, use ladders.

I saw in a trailer something about changing time of day, however I cannot find that option in game.

Multiplayer is a bit bumpy but it still works. You cannot undo strokes in multiplayer.

. So far so good. The basics are there. It needs some work, like adjustable difficulty, minimap, moving the camera to the selected zombie when you click on their icon. Too bad the Capcha on their forums account creation isn't working.. It felt too empty (and huge "dungeons" are not giving flesh to a game). And the end... ahem... the game is half-done?

Sorry, cannot recommend it.. Not sure what all the whining is about, this is a perfectly acceptable rendition of the genre.
